DETROIT TEAM HERE TO PLAY CARDINALS

Captain Victor Hemming received a telegram late this afternoon from Hemmuth, the Camp Grant center, stating that he had so arranged it to be able to be on hand for the first game this evening.

It is determined to take the scalp of the Detroit Y. M. C. the Lakota club are anxiously awaiting the game tonight, which will start the first of the two-game series. The Cardinals have been considerably strengthened and if the dope runs true to form the local quintet should cop both games.

Every effort has been made by the local manager to get together a team that will be hard to beat and it was decided to hold the same team as represented the Cardinals in their game against Rockford last week.

Hemmuth, the rangy Camp Grant center was to play with Janesville, but owing to his desire to play with Two Rivers last week he has been confined to Camp Grant for a month. Earl Phillips of Beloit will start at center and it takes a mighty good man to slip anything over on Earl.

A telegram was received from the Detroit manager this morning stating that the team left the Michigan city last evening and would arrive in Janesville this afternoon.

It is the first time in three years, with the exception of attending the Central A. A. U. tournament, that the Detroit five has left the home floor and they are more than anxious to win all the games on their trip.

Dermoddy, captain of the team, will be on hand and basketball fans who desire to watch good player despite which team he plays with, will have their wishes gratified. Dermoddy, who has been playing with the Detroit team for the past five years, has not an equal in basketball. He is a great floor man and a dead shot.

Cassidy, the hard working guard for the Lakotas will be pitted against Dermoddy and for the first time in many years Dermoddy will find that he is playing against a man who knows every angle of the game.

Harris, the basket getter from Madison, will be on hand and the Detroit guards will have their hands full keeping track of the lanky forward. Harris is a student of the game and follows the ball every minute and is a sure shot on baskets.

The game this evening will start promptly at 8:45 o'clock.

The Cardinal team will be composed of Cassidy, Peterson, Phillips, Harris and Hemming. Murphy will be on the sidelines.

LADIES' TEAMS BOWL AT EAST SIDE ALLEYS

In the first ladies' bowling match of the season at the East Side alleys last night, No. 1 team of the S. G. club defeated No. 2 five by a margin of 210 pins. Mrs. Scrivens hit 150 for high score. The 100 mark was hit several times by the winning team.

In the men's match game, S. G. club No. 2 team noted a victory over the first team by the narrow margin of several pins. Dewey and Carl performed in the stellar roles for the victorious smashers.

EAST PORTER

East Porter, Feb. 17.—Miss Hattie Day is visiting relatives in Edgerton. Miss Helen Walters spent the week-end at her home in Madison.

Will Hubbell was a Janesville visitor, Saturday.

Will Handtke, who is ill, is reported to be improving. Fox attended the teachers' meeting at Janesville, Saturday.

O. Manthel spent Saturday in Janesville.

R. Cook, Beloit, was a visitor at the home of Roy Anderson the past week. Miss Lena Manthel, Janesville, spent the week-end at the Shultz home.

L. Pessenden, Carl Handtke, John and Will Barrett, and Mrs. P. Barrett were Sunday visitors at the home of E. Fox.

F. Fisher, Center, was a business caller in this vicinity one day last week.

Mrs. C. Jones, Center, was a recent visitor in this vicinity.

A number in this vicinity are ill with the mumps.

St. Patrick Church No. 318 W. C. O. P. will hold regular meeting in the dining room over Sherer Drug Store tonight at 7:30.

200 BOWLERS TO MEET IN CONTEST THURSDAY

Three five-man teams, every man of which has bowled over two hundred in the Y. M. C. alleys, will meet Thursday night in a contest which promises to bring forth some big scores. Fourteen men have already hit the pins above the 200 mark, and another man is expected to complete the lineup before Thursday night.

The teams will be picked by chance in order to do away with any favoritism, and all men will bowl at the same time. Individual prizes will be awarded the man with the highest score of the evening. The scores roller are:

Stan Arwood—227
Walter L. Carle—225
Chas. Lange—224
S. F. Richards—222
Earl Marick—214
T. C. Thorson—210
M. Egbert—206
Ralph Soultan—205
Wm. Dickerson—204
Roy Gitchel—203
F. T. Richards—202
C. R. Bearmore—201
Floyd Teomans—201

BRIGGS' COLTS LOSE TO RAILROAD BUNCH

Briggs' Colts dropped a hard fought game to the C. M. & St. P. railroaders at the West Side bowling alleys last night, losing by a margin of 84 pins. The victors, the railroaders, won the first game by 100 pins which was enough to give them the victory. Brown of the Colts reeled 227 woodmen to sleep for high four while Dulce of the rails sent 206 bottles into the pit. The scores:

C. M. & St. P. Railroad

Wants $15,000 Purse for Match Race for Racers

[By Associated Press.] Indianapolis, Feb. 19.—Fifteen thousand dollars will be the purse for a match race for pacers if a challenge issued by Fred Cline, an Indianapolis horseman, is accepted by three owners of noted pacers. Cline is owner of Verlie Patchen, 2:02 1/2 and wants to match his horse against Miss Harris M., 1:55 3/4; Single G., 1:50 3/4, and Directum J., 2:01 1/4.

The Indianapolis horseman proposes that each owner enter his horse for $2,500 and that the association which gets the race put up another $5,000, thus bringing the purse to $15,000. He suggests that the race be held in Cleveland during the first week of the Grand Circuit season in July 7-11.

Indianapolis Nine May Train at French Lick

Indianapolis, Feb. 19.—Jack Hendricks, manager of the Indianapolis club of the American Association, favors making a short training trip this season. The players, in all probability, will do their conditioning either at French Lick or West Baden, Ind. The Pittsburgh club will train at West Baden and Hendricks believes a number of exhibition games can be arranged for the benefit of the wounded soldiers recuperating there.

Hendricks has mailed contracts to twenty-four players. As some of them still are in the military service, it will be some time before they will have a line on the available talent.

High School News

At a meeting of the high school cadets last evening the members of the company were urged by Captain McDermott and Capt. E. Baumann of the Wisconsin state guards to be more punctual in their attendance at drill. Each member also requested to bring in one or more new recruits into the company. After a drill the boys were treated to a feed consisting of coffee and doughnuts.

The Freshmen Manual Training classes have organized into teams and will play the second of a series of matches tomorrow at the high school. Last evening, Zimmerman's Olympics met and elected John Austin as manager and Monte Emmons as captain. Crabtree's Sharpshooters are scheduled to meet within a few days to elect their officers.

The Junior-Senior girls glee club will meet after school tonight for their regular weekly meeting.

The Senior Agriculture class visited the Janesville Machine Co., yesterday afternoon. Under the direction of Allen E. West they inspected the plant and were explained the details of the work. The farming implements were given special attention. The class will remain in study today, but will take another field trip within a few days.

Supper Tomorrow: Regular meeting of P. E. club will be held Thursday in I. O. O. F. hall. Members please be present. Supper served at six. Jessie Ward, Sec.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Feb. 19.—A dancing party will be given by the Fulton-Center Red Cross at the town hall at Indian Ford, Friday. Hatch's orchestra of Janesville will furnish the music and the proceeds will be used for the adoption of war orphans.

T. E. Houfe is improving after his recent illness.

Miss Mary Barrett has returned from Madison, where she went to spend the week-end with friends.

Miss Leona Post, returned to Chicago yesterday, after a short visit with her parents.

L. A. Anderson went to Chicago yesterday to see his sister, Miss Ingabur Anderson, who is reported seriously ill.

Mrs. Oscar Jensen visited friends in Janesville yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ash went to Madison yesterday to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Fuller.

T. C. Decker, Beloit, called on old friends in Edgerton yesterday.

P. N. Grubb is a business caller in Madison today.

Friends of Mrs. Alice Vaughn will be glad to hear she is improving after an operation at Mercy hospital, Janesville.

Mrs. Willette Decker and daughter, Lorence, Beloit, are visiting at the home of Miss Florence Child.

The W. R. C. took in five new members, after which a memorial program was given in honor of Lincoln and Washington. Supper was served.

Miss Susan Maltress called on the Thompson family in Stoughton yesterday.

Rev. Hooton, Mrs. Wetman Dickenson and Mrs. Wallace Brown attended a centenary in Stoughton at the M. E. church.

Mrs. Arthur Clarke was a Janesville caller yesterday.

Mrs. C. H. Babcock is reported no better and her friends are much concerned over her condition.

C. F. Smith, Sr., who has been visiting at the home of his son in this city, has returned to his home in Galesburg, Ill.

Miss Amanda Olson, Stoughton, came yesterday to teach in the first grade. Miss Florence Flagg formerly held the position.

The class of 1920 under whose auspices the eighth junior prom will be held, has made all plans for this event. The school year promises the best prom in the history of the school.

The prom will be held Friday evening, Feb. 23, at Academy hall. It is the desire of the class that invitations be extended to all friends of the class and to all others who received invitations to former proms.

Individual invitations will not be sent out this year. The proms of the past years have been conducted in such democratic manner and have been so efficiently supervised that no fears are felt that a decidedly successful and social affair will reward the efforts of this year's class.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Feb. 18.—The Parent Teacher association met at the city hall Monday afternoon. Mrs. Edna Munn presented the Junior Red Cross health program. Mrs. Grace Johnson, home demonstration agent, gave a talk on foods for children.

A discouraging fact in view of the high prices was the result of an experiment made on white mice. One, fed butter, weighed at the end of a given time 262 grains; while another fed oleomargarine, weighed only 109 grains. Showing butter contains elements necessary to growth, she said.

Major and Mrs. Lindbaum arrived home last evening.

Mrs. Harry Kling and Mrs. Edward Cass were in Milwaukee, Monday, to hear Alma Gluck.

Mrs. A. I. Means spent Tuesday in Milwaukee.

Miss Lillian Schmidt, Milwaukee, is visiting relatives here for a few days.

Hugo Schmidt was in Milwaukee the first of the week.

Mrs. Maud Williams spent Tuesday in Stoughton.

Mrs. Callie Foulkes and family left Monday to join Mr. Foulkes, who has a pastorate in a suburb of Louisville, Ky.

Notice: The Presbyterian Women's society will hold their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. S. B. Heddies, 428 N. Jackson St. Friday afternoon at 2:30. Election of officers, annual reports read, and refreshments will be served.

Cabinet meeting at 2 o'clock. A large attendance is desired.

Mrs. Chas. L. Hanson, Sec.

... and at the Waldorf-Astoria

A fact:

The Waldorf in New York is but one of the many hotels all over the country, where Fatima is the largest-selling cigarette. The same thing is true, for example

- at the Astor, New York, where over 200,000 Fatimas are sold every month;
- at the Willard, in Washington;
- at the Gibson and the Sinton, in Cincinnati;
- at the Copley Plaza, the Touraine, the Parker House and Young's, in Boston;
- and at dozens of other leading hotels (and clubs, too) all over the country.

FATIMA

A Sensible Cigarette

NOTE—At such places as these, low price doesn't count. Fatimas lead in sales, not because of their low price, but because men PREFER them to higher-priced cigarettes. They prefer Fatima's taste; and they find that Fatimas treat them right.

A QUESTION.
A young woman who is employed recently asked this question: "What are you going to do with the women who have taken jobs of fighting men
and will have to give them up when the boys come back? Everyone is discussing plans for the men but are leaving the women out of the scheme
for re-education."

Answers to that question could be numerous and the mere man who understands to answer is laying himself liable to criticism. It takes a great deal of courage to even make a suggestion.

But that problem does loom big,
especially to the young woman who has left the home and taken a job in the office, the store or the factory.
Our first big problem, of course, is to see that the boys who went to the front get their jobs back. We must see that there is employment for the men who have families to support.
We must keep industry at the minimum. But we must also consider the women who backed up the men in the trenches with their hard-earned dollars and their devotion to duty.

Girls who had never been in business, left homes of ease to take up the burden of the wage-earner. Many of them have learned to like their work
and will regretfully relinquish their positions. Others will gladly give up the way for the returning men if they are given assurance that they will be provided with the comforts they have been accustomed to while earning their own bread and butter.

And that brings us right down to the point. Those who have had to earn that bread and butter and who must have to give back the money
the jobs they have been holding to the man who went to war, must have a home whether she earns the money to maintain it or whether some one maintains it for her.

We are going through the process of reconstruction. Before the war we were hustling along at such a speed that we had little time to go into retrospect. We were too busy making
many of the things which had made
this the greatest country in the world.
We were, in fact, getting away from the home. Now we have a chance to get back.

These soldier boys who are coming back from the battlefields of France
went away youths, care-free, happy-go-lucky and with little thought of responsibility. When they return they are going to be changed. They have been broadened in experience; their
deeper thoughts have been aroused.
They are coming back men. They will be ready to settle down to the realities of citizenship. They will be satisfied to make homes for themselves and their mates.

These women who have demonstrated their common sense by taking up the burdens of the men who fought would make ideal life companions for the sturdy fellows who want homes when they return.

Matrimony, then, seems to be the answer to the question. Not only will the women benefit by getting homesteads which have been given back to
many of the things which had made
this the greatest country in the world.
We were, in fact, getting away from
the home. Now we have a chance to get back.

LAY THEM LOW.
Investigations of some of the sentences of soldiers as the result of court martial indicate that there is Prussianism in the United States army to some extent. That is a plain statement, but the evidence which has been obtained by members of the legislature and which has been made public, demands plain speaking. It is fortunate that the number of officers of that type are few.

The United States has been a potent force in humbling and depriving the Hun officers of their authority and now might be a good time to bring to earth those United States officers who have far exceeded their moral right, if not their authority, in meting out punishment to our boys who have fought for the Stars and Stripes.

Senator Borah of Idaho, a few days ago in speaking before his colleagues
said:

"I have now in my possession information which comes to me direct from an authority in the war department, who examined the record and who knows whereof he speaks, such as this: A boy was ordered to peel potatoes, which he declined to do, and he was sent to the penitentiary for 20 years by court martial."

"The man who assessed that punishment is a dangerous member of society. He would commit murder if the place was secret enough so that the miserable coward would not be intercepted in his deed. It is that man I want to reach. Militarism in the United States is just as objectionable to me when it is based upon such infamous practices as it is in Prussia."

A number of cases similar to that stated by Senator Borah were told by the senate military affairs committee of Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, who was acting judge advocate general of the army throughout the major period of the war. One was the case of a private soldier who was sentenced to 40 years' imprisonment for insolence to an officer who insisted that he give up
a package of cigarettes.

These instances should not cause undue alarm, for they are not typical of the generosity of officers in the American army. The number guilty of such atrocious conduct is small. It must be remembered that the army

was expanded from an insignificant
force to more than three millions, almost overnight. It was inevitable that in such a sudden expansion some unit men should gain high places.
We should be glad that the number was not greater.

Senator Borah believes that some form of punishment should be meted out to army officers who have so shamefully misused their authority.
The sentiment of the country agrees with this. The least that could be done would be to give them a dishonorable discharge. Their names with the story of their misconduct should be given wide publication.

The authorities should change
the court martial laws so that the power to mete such unjust punishment should be forever removed from those who could use it.

BETTER HIGHWAYS.
The board of supervisors has an opportunity to provide for first steps in bonding the county for $2,000,000 to be used in the construction of highways. If twenty-one out of 40 members of the board give their O. K. to the plan at a special meeting which may be held March 4, the matter may be put up to the voters at the spring election. If the consent of the voters is given funds may be raised to provide for the building of 100 miles of concrete trunk line highways in Rock county.

If the people vote favorably it does not mean that the bonded indebtedness will be loaded on the shoulders of the taxpayers in such proportions that it will be burdensome. With the state and federal aid which will be forthcoming as soon as the proposed highways are completed, the expenditure can be spread over a period
which will make easy payments possible.

Rock county may as well have the use of profitable highways, built as soon as plans can be approved by federal engineers, as to worry along with piece-meal roads which will take years to build and which will be of little benefit to those who need them
most.

By voting for the bond issue at this time, the way will be paved for building to be started a year hence. It is necessary that considerable time be given the government engineers to give their approval of the plans, as numerous similar projects, from all parts of the country, are before them.
If we pass the bond issue and the plans are put to the voters, it is not likely that we will be ready to go ahead before next winter sets in.

If the bond issue is not approved at the spring election it will have to go over until later, and that would give little time to prepare for action
a year hence.

However, most residents of the county agree that good roads must be built and that delay means the loss of many dollars.

Another excellent step to encourage the youth on the farm to make the best of his opportunities has been taken in the formation of a Pig club. A membership campaign has been started among the rural school pupils by their teachers. If the youngsters will take advantage of the chance to raise better pigs, they will lay the foundation for raising stock which will be a credit not only to themselves but to Rock county.

American sailors will have to be given credit for having navy uniforms as lighters. When they return they will be going to be changed. They have been broadened in experience; their
deeper thoughts have been aroused.
They are coming back men. They
will be ready to settle down to the realities of citizenship. They will be satisfied to make homes for themselves and their mates.

Erberger admits that Germany
made a mistake in 1871 when she did not consult the people of Alsace and Lorraine as to their fate. Germany
now has an opportunity to avoid mistakes in the future and if she will accept the advice of the allies and do everything in her power to right the great wrongs she has committed she will not have these difficulties to overcome in the future.

Thirty-six business men of the city
are going to attend the course of lectures on federal and state income taxes, so they may be in a position to aid those who desire help in making out their returns. This should relieve the minds of many who have wondered how they were going to fill in their blanks properly after reading
the complicated taxation system.

The advice of President Wilson's physician that he take as much rest
as possible on board the ship which is bringing him to his native land, is that of a wise man. From reports coming from Washington, indications point to a strenuous session for our chief executive when he meets some of the congressional leaders who are opposed to the peace plan.

Princess Trobetskoy believes in trial
engagements in which the woman shall live in the man's home for a month so she may see how he treats
his mother, sister, dogs, cats, how he nets at the table, and how he speaks to the servants. It is a certainty that business at the marriage license bureau would fall off if this plan was followed.

The lower house of the legislature is evidently preparing the way for the proposed increase in the members' salaries. A resolution was passed providing for six daily sessions each week. With the number of bills introduced by them, it may be necessary to pay time and a half for over-time and allow the solons to work Sundays.

Tax figures show that Janesville's per capita value of real estate is low
in comparison with other Wisconsin cities. But wait until many of the vacant lots which now dot the city
become the sites of workmen's modern homes.

THEIR OPINIONS
Two Each Century

Twenty years ago today the final touches were put on the peace treaty concluding the Spanish-American war.
One war every twenty years is five to the century.—Wausau Record-Herald.

Help Not Great.
Also it is possible that "stiff" pickets at Washington had something to do with the defeat of the suffrage movement. At least it is incredible

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE GOB RETURNS TO PRIVATE LIFE.

I've been a gob for eighteen months,
I've sailed the rolling seas,
But I am homeward bound today,
For the navy's through with me.
I got my papers yesterday, my ticket
and my pay.

And I'm headed straight for a job on land and here I'm going to stay.

But I'm thinking now, as I ride the train with a grin upon my face,
Of the other chap who'll be passing
coal tomorrow in my place.

I've loaded coal in old New York and I've loaded coal in Brest.
I've shoveled fuel north and south
and I've shoveled east and west.

I've stored it deep in the bunkers
dark and I've had my place in line.

And cursed as only a sailor can each Pennsylvania mine.

Let poets sing of the rolling deep and
life on the bounding sea;
I'm glad to say there's another chap
now passing coal for me.

I've had my bouts with "Jimmy Legs," I've sweated and I've told.

I've knuckled down for the sake of peace to a B. O. had killed.
I've stood my watch when the night
was cold and out in the blazing sun.

But the sweetest joy that I've ever known was the time they said,
"You're done."

So let me smile as I'm homeward bound, let me look at the trees
and grass.

For I'm nearing the port that I've dreamed about where there is no coal to pass.

Hold Your Temper.
The only place coal is going down is through the furnace grates. If this condition continues most of use will have to warm our domiciles with the

Time to Change.
Intelligent communities and intelligent nations use constructive policies—not the destructive kind. Intelligent destruction is what has saved
the world through centuries of failure.
—Superior Telegram.

Scope Is Wide.
The anti-saloon league having won
its great fight for prohibition is reported now to be turning its attention to tobacco and the baneful habit of smoking. And after the cigarettes, cigars, stogies, Jimmy pipes, etc., have followed the route taken by John Barleycorn it is only a step to ten-cots, cigars, movies and other forms of highly injurious amusement.
—Neenah Times.

Prove Up!
These alien who came at the last minute and desire first papers and citizenship should be permitted to prove their intention by serving a year in the standing army. That's one way to make certain that they mean to be citizens and are not just seeking the first papers to save their jobs.—Kenosha News.

Ole On the Job.
It wasn't necessary to recall President Wilson from Europe to go to Seattle. Ole Hanson was on the job.

MAGNOLIA
Magnolia, Feb. 17.—John Barringer delivered his tobacco last week, receiving 20 cents a pound for his crop.

Helpers union will meet with Mrs.
Frank Drexler, Thursday afternoon.
Weekly A. C. prayer meeting will be held at the T. M. Harper home.

Ralph and Raymond Mau and Robert Van Skike spent Saturday with their uncle, John Clutter.

The Royal Neighbors will meet Friday evening of this week for installation of officers. Members are urged to be present.

Howard Dougherty is being treated twice daily since he was scratched by the mad dog. It being necessary for him to take 20 treatments. Several others have killed their dogs and others are urged to watch their dogs closely.

Mrs. Gordon Ahara went to Rockland, Ill., last week with her sister,
Belle, and family, for a few days' stay.

Miss Helen Letts spent Sunday with Miss Esther Woodstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Thompson spent Sunday at the parental home of the former.

Lucius Andrew, Beloit, spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs.
Wallace Andrew.

Cocoanut Oil Fine
For Washing Hair
If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain multified coconut oil (which is pure and entirely grease-less), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can get for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy
lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily,
and removes every particle of dirt, dirt,
dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get multified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last
everyone in the family for months.

FINE FOR RHEUMATISM
Musterole Loosens Up Those
Stiff Joints—Drives Out Pain
You'll know why thousands use Musterole once you experience the glad relief it gives.

Get a jar at once from the nearest drug store. It is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard.
Better than a mustard plaster, it does not blister. Brings ease and comfort while it is being rubbed on!

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, February 19, 1879.—The Janesville Gazette have arranged for a very pleasing program for Friday night at Lappin's hall. Martial music will be given by the drum corps. Vocal music will be furnished by Mrs. St. John,
Mrs. C. B. Conrad, Mrs. H. A. Smith,
Mrs. C. E. Mosley, and Messrs. Newman, Ashley, Bennett and Wingate.
Readings will be given by O. H. Feth-ers, and a recitation by Miss Ida Davies. A recitation will be given by Mrs. J. Day and Miss Davies assisted by the Guards. The closing feature of the entertainment will be an exhibition and fancy drill under charge of Lieutenant M. A. Newman. A dance will follow.

The militiamen have received word
from Rev. J. L. Jones, to join a Washington Memorial service at All Souls' church Sunday morning. The Veterans have decided to attend in a body.

A DIFFERENT WORLD.
Somebody has said
It is a different world
Since the war.
Somebody is right—
Ladies, policemen,
Messenger boys with whiskers,
Transparent roast beef,
Women bill-posters,
Foodless train meals,
Winter weather abolished,
Eighty cent butter,
Puncture proof griddle cakes,
Skip-stop street cars,
Thousand new "don'ts."

George Creel in eclipse,
Desk soldiers back to work,
Shirts dragging on ground,
Weather abolished,
And a famine in parsnips.
"How shall we ever Withstand our woes?"
Asks a calamity howler.
In one of our public prints
And the philosopher replied:
"Go to a good show
And forget them."

MARIE.
Marie loved concerts.
I took her to one not long ago.
We discussed the music.
Said I, "His technique was excellent
But his music sounded so quick and jerky."

Marie was clever.
Make no mistake.
Perhaps, she answered,
"Well, don't blame him for that;
Wasn't he playing Chopin?"
—Mark Hellinger.

It has been a very unhappy winter
for the lady who spent $396 for a squirrel coat.

A St. Louis man has been fined $500

Gradually the people will learn that it is not what policemen are for, but they are pesky cute—sometimes.

We can only hope that the Versailles conference doesn't run out of peace before everybody is served.

WILL ADVERTISE FOR BIDS FOR BRIDGE SOON

C. V. Kerch, city engineer, stated this morning that the plan for the new bridge over Rock river at Jackson street, had been completed and that undoubtedly bids would be asked in a short time.

Mr. Kerch stated that congress had passed the bill permitting the city to build the bridge and that the next big step in the work was to advertise for bids.

Bids will be asked for through one advertisement in the official city paper and undoubtedly an advertisement will be run in several of the technical journals.

The work of laying the water mains on South Jackson street is progressing rapidly and the city engineer is continuing it is hoped to complete the work by March 15.

W. H. DOUGHERTY WILL SPEAK AT K. G. BANQUET

W. H. Dougherty, past state deputy of Wisconsin Order of Knights of Columbus, has been secured to give the address of the evening at the 15th annual banquet of the Janesville Knights which will be held at the Myers Hotel on Monday evening.

Mr. Dougherty, well known to Janesville people, has been active in the K. G. circles for a number of years and he stated this morning that he had a red hot speech prepared for the evening.

All arrangements for the affair have been completed and this morning the members of the organization received cards asking them to notify the committee in charge at once of the number of places they wished to occupy.

Following the banquet and entertainment at the Myers Hotel, the members and their lady friends will repair to the Apollo theatre where a dancing party will be held.

Henry White Greets Soldiers in Chicago

Henry White, porter at the Chicago and Northwestern passenger station has returned from Chicago where he went to greet the boys of the "Fighting Eight" on their arrival.

Mr. White stated that he had many friends in the organization and that most of the returned soldiers were glad to see him and they were all well pleased with the welcome given them by the people of Chicago.

"I attended all the doings of the day," Mr. White said, "and those boys sure were given a wonderful welcome by the people of Chicago, and by the stories told of their behavior in action I guess they certainly deserved all they received."

Church News

The Carrell Memorial Methodist church membership has been divided into 14 units, 10 in the city and four in the country. Over each unit has been appointed a leader and large group services will be held in these units every Thursday except the last Thursday of the month when the meeting will be held at the church. The meetings this week follow: No. 1, Mrs. Andrew Porter, 633 N. Chatham street; No. 2, Elmer Townsend, 1402 Pleasant street; No. 3, E. G. Owen, 1014 Mineral street; No. 4, F. T. ## News About Folks

SOCIAL EVENTS

Miss Lulu Zink and Mrs. Howard Carlin entertained twelve young ladies at a six o'clock dinner last evening at the home of Miss Zink, North Bluff street, in honor of Miss Esther Peterson, whose marriage to Archie Cunningham will take place March 4. Miss Peterson was presented with some beautiful hand painted china.

Mrs. George Sennett of the Jeffries flats was hostess Monday evening to the Dulcis club. It was given in honor of Mrs. Otto Lukas, a recent bride. A few hours were spent socially. At 10 o'clock Mrs. Sennett, with red ribbons and hearts. In the center was a small box, decorated with red. Beside it stood a postman. Streamers of red were suspended from the chandeliers to the corners of the table, and from each plate to the small box, from which every one drew a valentine. The place cards were red hearts. Each card had an original bit of poetry written by the hostess, pertaining to each guest. Mrs. Lukas was presented with a Daulton tea set. Miss Lizzie Huskell, Chicago, was the out-of-town guest.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Matheson, 624 St. Lawrence avenue, entertained at a small dinner party Tuesday evening. Covers were laid for ten.

Miss Mabel Greenman, Main street, is entertaining today. Her guests are members of a bridge club led by her sister, Miss M. J. Adams. Miss M. J. Adams, who will be one of the early March brides. Cards were enjoyed and a tea was to be served.

Little Miss Mary Jane Thueren, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Thueren, Monroe street, celebrated her fourth birthday, Monday afternoon. She invited 14 little girls to her party. Children's games were played, and refreshments, such as all small people enjoy, were served—ice cream, little cakes, and candy. Each child was given a party favor. The party was given during the afternoon.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

A married people's dancing club, has just been organized in this city. About 15 couples are already members. The first dance will be held Thursday evening at Apollo hall. The George Hatch orchestra will furnish the music. Those in charge are: Mrs. M. J. Adams, Mrs. M. J. Adams, and they are not wholly confined to the married people. At their first meeting they will vote on a suitable name for the club.

Mrs. James Newmann of the Black Bridge road was hostess Tuesday afternoon to a club of women. They have been doing refugee work, but yesterday they took their own work and a social afternoon was spent. Supper was served. They will meet again in two weeks.

The Red Cross work shop was opened up once more for work today. They have received a new set of sewing machines. They will use the Belgian and French patterns, which are simple, but must be warm and durable, and are made of a good quality of cloth. The women of the city are urged to come and help out on this quota of work.

The main street card club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. W. Wool. Bridge was played at two tables. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

The woman of the General Aid will hold a rummage sale Friday and Saturday at 205 West Milwaukee street. All who can contribute are asked to bring articles Thursday.

The Congregational Women's Missionary society will meet Thursday night at 7:30. The topic for the afternoon will be "Preachers of the Flow, in India." Supper will be served.

The Onaway club met Tuesday evening at Janesville Center. The girls are making little novelties to be used at home among the needy. During the evening a cup of chocolate and sandwiches were served.

The Aid society of the Carrell M. E. church was entertained yesterday by a fifteen cent lunch served by Circle No. 1 headed by Mrs. Elmer Towne. The meeting was held at the church and was an interesting affair with about sixty in attendance. A quantity of business matters was attended to with the president, Mrs. Belle Dixon, in charge. A committee of five was appointed to provide kitchen equipment for the use of the women, when called on to provide meals.

Circle No. 3 of the Carrell Methodist church celebrated their 18th anniversary last evening at a birthday dinner held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Thriller, East Milwaukee street. The affair was held at seven o'clock and included the members of the circle and their husbands. The dinner was served at one large table and several smaller ones, and the money was raised on a game of cards. Included among other good things was apple pie a la mode. A large birthday cake with 18 candles was a feature of the occasion. Participants were chosen by Mrs. Thriller. The evening was much merrier. Games and a social hour were enjoyed at the close of the dinner. Mrs. Geo. St. Clair is the president of the circle.

Mrs. Ben Windsor and son Robert, Chicago, are guests at Mrs. Robert Duley, North Jackson street.

Mrs. James Zankas is home from Chicago. She will spend several days in town, before returning to her studies in that city.

Ray A. Fitzgerald, 714 Center street has gone to Lincoln, Neb., on a business trip.

Leslie R. Hyde and daughter of South Dakota, have been visiting at the home of Mr. Hyde's sister, Mrs. F. H. Porter. From here they will go to Texas to make their future home.

Miss M. J. McKean and her sister, Mrs. Charles Connors, 164 South Academy street, are seriously ill with influenza at Mercy hospital.

John P. Perry, Chicago, spent the first of the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hatch, Jefferson avenue.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

A cablegram received today from Lieut. Robert Duley stated that he had sailed from Great Britain on the Mual for America. He expected to sail last week, but was delayed.

Navajo McCarthy has for his guest this week Lieut. Clark, Green Bay. He has recently received his discharge from the medical corps in Milwaukee.

Lieut. Glenn McCarthy, Avon, was in Janesville this week. He has just received his discharge from the service. He was in the aviation corps for over two years, stationed at Camp Funston, Kansas, Ft. Lousia, Salt Lake City. He is a former Janesville boy.

The call for living accommodations continues strong. Yesterday the home registration bureau rented one flat, one suite and two furnished rooms.

Stenographers at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce were kept busy this morning preparing and distributing prospect cards to the workers in the housing campaign.

Forty-two visitors and 84 telephone calls was yesterday's record at the Chamber of Commerce.

Distribution of comparative rates of expense and parcels post has been made to a large number of business men.

Blue "Worker" tags were much in evidence at eight o'clock this morning when a large number of business men met to start housing solicitation.

TOBACCO GROWERS TAKE FIRST STEPS FOR WAREHOUSE

After a two-hour discussion of everything pertaining to the organization of the Rock County Tobacco Growers' association, 74 men signed up to join at $5 apiece at the meeting held in West Side Odd Fellows hall, yesterday afternoon. Another meeting will be held at 8 o'clock this evening, together with any more tobacco growers who want to come in to the association will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the same hall for the purpose of completing the organization and taking action to secure a warehouse.

The suggestion of Frank Fisher, secretary, at the opening of the meeting, was to get $10,000 to get a warehouse and carry on the work of sorting, sizing, and packing the farmers' tobacco. He pointed out that if each member paid $100 membership the work would be commenced at once. This suggestion brought a storm of disapproval. Alvin Maxfield, Wilson Lane and others agreed that a big membership fee like this would shut out the small growers.

It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that it would be better to have every grower in Rock county a member at a small fee than to have a few join at $100 each. A plan to have each grower pay a price per acre was strongly favored, but the discussion ended with the decision to put the fee at $5 for each member.

Eugene Culver of La Prairie, president, told of what had been done in the way of investigation. It is possible to get a warehouse capable of handling 1,800 cases and 50 sorters, he told the growers.

Many tobacco growers spoke on the situation and plans. Several farmers seemed to favor an organization of all the farmers, not just the tobacco growers, but all who produced or handled tobacco. It was pointed out that it would not be possible to form a Society of Equity in the county until next month when the organizers are expected here.

Public Is Warned Against Taking Substitutes For Nuxated Iron

Physicians Below Say That Ordinary Metallic Iron Preparations Cannot Possibly Give The Same STRENGTH, POWER AND ENDURANCE As Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

VILLAIN?
A woman's scream and the smash of the steering wheel against his breastbone as he ground his heel on the brake, shook Roy Nicoll out of his thoughts. Ordinarily a careful driver, he had almost run down a pedestrian because his mind had left his driving. He had been thinking of Janet Stedman.

He had made up his mind about Janet's heart, as people usually do. These desires which have least reason to them, had, in its own particular fashion, long demanded Janet. But that careful mind of his which had amused his millions had held off and kept itself well in leash.

"Janet's too fine a woman for intrigue," his mind told him.

All the more reason why you want her," his other self answered. "She's the finest in the world—and you've never been afraid to go after the very best there is! You're money enough! She's not the kind one buys with money."

Money is nothing—or it is everything," his "heart" persisted. "It depends on the form in which you present it. Don't offer her money. Offer her love. They're not the same for her. But you can tempt anyone with life, more life than the other fellow offers, the right kind of life. You can't buy that. You can't buy a position where she can use her best gifts. Show her a position of unlimited growth. Let her feel power. Give her a chance for action on a big scale. Open up for her the biggest kind of vistas. Prove to her that she'll have great opportunities for good; that she can become an influence. You have the chance to win her. But her property he had just acquired. It was "Woman," for a quarter century the most foremost publication among women's magazines. But he had built it up. He had stopped working years before. He had fought man suffrage, and called against woman suffrage who preferred to make a living outside the home to stay in it. The result was that he was looking off what was once a magazine of wide circulation and great influence. Given a modern name, it had been reborn and had resumed its leadership in the world of women's magazines in a country in which the

Flounces Feature School Girl Frock

By ELOISE.
With the coming season the little school girl will want some new frocks for spring dancing parties and school exercises. And the little girl's frock is nothing to be talked of lightly in these days of advanced prices. She wears georgettes, chiffons, silks and velvets just like her elders and the cost of them is enough to scare aunts and grandmothers who paid but a mere pittance for a "best dress" in the good old days. A mother of a ten-year-old was bemoaning the fact the other day that "a plain, ordinary gingham frock with the scantiness of skirts and no trimming cost $12.75." The little party frock pictured is simple enough to be easily made at home and the handy needlewoman can make it for at least half of the store price. White chiffon with a dainty little rose pattern is cut into a full round blouse with short sleeves. The skirt is three-tiered and edged in rose tulle. A girlish sash with a bow in the back is also rose colored tulle.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Well, the old Red Rooster stopped growing as soon as he saw Billy Bunny and Uncle Lucky in the Luckymobile, and he stood up and hopped his wings, and then he hopped the ashes out of his old corn-cob pipe and said:

"Cook-a-doodle-do.
How do you do?
I hope you're feeling fit and fine
And that you haven't come to dine.
For I have nothing left to eat Except a little wrinkled beet."

"No, we're going home for dinner," answered the old gentleman rabbit. "What I came for is to ask you if you'd like to do some gardening for me this spring."

"All right," said the old Red Rooster. "I'm looking for a job." "Well, hurry up and get in the Luckymobile," said Uncle Lucky. So the old Red Rooster locked his front door and then he jumped into the car and away they all went for the old gentleman rabbit's little white house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street.

Well, as soon as the Luckymobile was in the garage Uncle Lucky took the Red Rooster out to the garden and told him to scratch the soil in the young and get it ready for planting while he got out the little seed envelopes.

"Now along here we'll plant a row of lettuce, and over there some carrots, and close by the garden wall some sunflowers. For I love sunflowers," said the old gentleman rabbit. "I like to watch them turn their great yellow heads toward the sun."

Well, pretty soon Billy Bunny and his uncle were planting the seeds and then the old Red Rooster covered them over very carefully with dirt. And then they put the envelopes on little sticks and stuck them in the ground, so as to tell just where they had planted the different kinds of vegetables. And when this was all done they went and washed their hands under the pump.

"Goodness, gracious, ree-bus," said Uncle Lucky. "I'm tired," and he went to the front porch and lay down in the hammock, and then the little sparrow who always built her nest there each year, began to sing:

"Under the roof I've a nice little nest
Where I keep my birds warm under my breast.
And dear Uncle Lucky never charges
me rent.
So I twitter and chirp and am always content."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

NEURASTHENIA THE APOCYPHAL

It may seem severe to say that neurasthenia is a battle between the individual and his conscience, in which conscience loses only about once out of fifty times. But be that as it may, I want to put down here the more characteristic symptoms of neurasthenia. I dare say nearly every healthy reader would find the description more or less applicable to his or her "case." The dividing line between normality and neurasthenia is just as vague and indefinite as is the line between sanity and insanity, from the medical point of view. That the latter line is a wide and wavering one is evident enough in the everyday court proceedings in cases of alleged insanity.

Neurasthenia is no more akin to insanity than a flabbiness of muscles is to paralysis. We are all more or less sane. Sanity is the average of mental competence which is accepted as standard. One must fall below the standard before he is called insane.

We all have a certain amount of dynamic force or energy to draw on. Some of us squander energy in various useless ways, intentionally or unconsciously, and when we become bankrupt we are neurasthenic.

An athlete who over trains is apt to suffer with all the characteristic symptoms of neurasthenia for several weeks or months as a result of his unwise spending. A student who devotes too much time to books and not enough to pleasure, recreation, physical education, is likely to become neurasthenic. A woman who plays the social game too hard and too fast, expending too much energy in the so-called game of make-believe, is on the road to neurasthenia. Competition, you see, breeds neurasthenia. Competition implies selfishness, legitimate tricks of the trade, rivalry, anxiety, worry, fear and conscience. These

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Sunlight versus Tuberculosis
Several friends have advised me to try the sunlight treatment for tuberculosis of the throat. I am told that there are a large number of persons here (Colorado Springs, Colo.) who have been greatly benefited by the treatment. Would the sunlight be harmful and is it really beneficial in tuberculosis? (S. A. W.)

ANSWER.—It is not wholly harmful, but under medical supervision it is harmless, and often of great value in the treatment of tuberculosis of any part of the body.

Ouch, Have a Heart
1. What are the early symptoms of cancer of the stomach, and how long does it take stomach cancer to develop? (W. K. N.)

ANSWER.—There are no characteristic symptoms. Any person over thirty-five or forty years of age who begins to have constant stomach trouble which fails to respond to diet and medication, may well think of the possibility of cancer, since the disease is so common and occurs in every family now and then. Vomiting of blood stained material and loss of weight are two of the most interesting symptoms. If I had cancer of the stomach, why raise such unpleasant points in a discussion of the pleasant subject of a whirl at the ether and the knife recently, I think that I should not hesitate to get in there and try his luck. It is a Hobson's choice.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—
RUTH CAMERON

ALL THE SMALL PLEASURES POSSIBLE.
We were talking the other day about some pictures we had sent to the developer and were expecting back by every mail, and in the course of the conversation I asked a neighbor if she ever took pictures.

"Oh no," she said. "I never have been one for fads of any sort. I seem to take pride in the statement. I wondered why. Is it something to be proud of that one shuts off the sources of harmless legitimate pleasure from myself? I love to have as many small pleasures in my life as I have a right to have."

Take the Fad of Photography.
Take the fad of photography. What an interest it gives to life! You see so much more of the world about you because you have the photographic eye, and you learn to see groupings and bits of composition that will make good pictures. You snap the pictures and you send them away, and then you have the pleasant anticipation of the day they will come back. Every mail may contain them, which gives the postman's visits much more of interest to you. When they come, you enjoy looking at them and showing them to other people who are also interested in photography or in the individual subject (I assume you are the sort of person who knows enough to confine his audience to people who are really interested). Then you put the pictures away and as the years go by you look over these books again and again and light up and vivify your memories by them, or hunt for some special picture that illustrates some story you are telling, or some particular locality that someone is interested in.

This is Only a Symbol.
I have said so much about photography because it is a fad with whose contribution to the interestingness of life I am familiar, but I am not trying to urge the practice of it upon you (though I think I shall be doing you a favor if I direct your attention that way), only using it as a symbol of the pleasure that a small fad can bring into your life.

And after all, isn't this small humdrum, commonplace little pleasure whose sun make up the largest part of our joy in life? Isn't it small pleasures that fill up the nooks and crannies where loneliness and boredom would otherwise lurk?

How Such Little Pleasures Light Up a Day.
Your favorite rose brings forth its first blossom, the postman brings you a magazine with the latest installment of an interesting serial in it, a friend invites you to listen to a new record, you hear an interesting story about some people you are interested in—these are all little things, but how they enrich and light up a day!

Big adventures, great events, special pleasures cannot come every day, but the anticipations and thrills of small pleasures can, and the wise man or woman has as many of them as he legitimately can in his life.

Bean Croquettes.—Three cups stewed or baked beans, three cups corn flakes, one tablespoon fat, three tablespoons strained tomato, one teaspoon salt and a speck of pepper. Add the melted fat to the beans which have been cooked, drained and mashed. Then add the tomato and salt unless the beans are salty. Last add the corn flakes, sufficient to make the croquette hold shape. This depends upon the dryness of the bean pulp. Shape the mixture into croquettes, place them in a greased pan and bake them in a hot oven until browned.

A Guide to GOOD MANNERS

By JARICO

Here are a few don'ts for the dinner guest.

Don't use the fingers to pick up chicken, game or chop bones, what can not be cut from the bone must be left on the plate.

Don't take asparagus up in the fingers, it looks very ungraceful to see it hoisted to the mouth, dripping with sauce. It should be eaten with a fork.

Don't bite off mouthfuls of bread nor cut it up, but break it as needed in pieces small enough to make a mouthful and spread just before eating. Crackers are eaten the same way.

Don't use the fingers to push food on a fork. Use a bit of bread or a knife.

Don't use a knife to cut lettuce or any kind of salad, a fork is all that is needed for salad.

NUTRITIOUS LUNCHEON DISHES

Prunes and Farina Pudding.—Two cups prunes, one cup farina, two cups milk, one-half teaspoon grated orange peel. Put two cups of water on to boil, add the farina slowly, boil until thick; add the salt, milk and boil in top of double boiler one hour. Wash and soak the prunes over night; dry and cut in half, removing stone, and add to farina; pour into bowl, sprinkle with sugar and dust with a little cinnamon. Serve for luncheon.

Bananas and Rice.—Four very ripe bananas, one cup rice, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon butter, one-half cupful brown sugar. Wash, boil and crush the bananas over night. Brush with oil or butter and mix with butter. Fill the rice in mound shape; dust with salt. Skin, scrape and split the bananas, spread over the rice, and cook with lid down, put in hot oven, bake 25 minutes, or until bananas are done a light brown. Serve on dish in which it is baked. Garnish with red jelly.

Prune and Cream Cheese Salad.—Two cups steamed prunes, one cream cheese, one cup finely cut celery, seasoning to taste, shredded lettuce, one-half cup salad dressing, oil, wash and cook the prunes over night. In the morning put on stove and bring to boil. Drain, cool and dry; remove the stones; fill center with one-half teaspoon of cheese which has been highly seasoned or season to taste; put on shredded lettuce; sprinkle with celery and cover with dressing. This makes a very attractive salad.

GOOD CAKE RECIPES.
Angel Cake.—Two and one-half ounces flour, one ounce cornstarch, one teaspoon cream of tartar, ten ounces pulverized sugar, whites of twelve eggs, one teaspoon vanilla. Sift the flour, cornstarch and cream of tartar together five times. Beat the whites of the eggs till very stiff, add a pinch of salt while adding. Fold in the sugar, add the vanilla and the flour, very lightly, last. Do not beat after flour is added. Turn in a mold greased on the bottom only, and bake 45 minutes. Remove from oven and invert on table so that air may reach it. Do not remove from mould till cold.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have cared for a schoolmate from childhood. I used to think that I would never marry another, he was so much to me. While I have loved him sincerely from childhood to womanhood, he never showed any particular preference for me. He always treated me courteously, but I know he did not care for me as I did for him. He has no bad habits and seems very fond of me. I have no reason to doubt him as he is a man of his word. My work has brought me into his company for the last four years so that I feel very well acquainted with him and his ways.

He is kindness itself, always remembering me in every way and does not care to show his preference for me before others. He has ample means to furnish a good home and I have to admit in my own heart that he is more of a man morally than my schoolmate. Yet I am afraid if my schoolmate were to ask me to marry also, that I would accept him, for I have dreamed all my life of some day being his wife.

What would you advise me to do? Marry the one and forget that I ever cared for the other, or reject the other one and run the chance of some day winning my childhood sweetheart? He does not live near my now and I may never see him again.

Word the difference in my age and the other one's be too great, do you think? He will soon be an old man. Should I tell him of my fancy for my schoolmate if I take him?

The man you love does not exist. You have dreamed about your schoolmate until you have created an ideal and it is the ideal you love. This is unfortunate because it has prevented a normal interest in other men. I would not advise you to marry the older man for two reasons. You are not in love with him, and there is too much difference in your ages to have congenial tastes.

Do not wait for the schoolmate. Recognize the truth—that you have dreamed more than wise—and start now to take an interest in other men.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a certain young man for about a year and we attend a great many dances together. There is another young man who goes to the same dances and is almost constantly there on the same nights. I know him well and do not like him in the least. In fact, I hate him. He always makes it a point to ask my friend to trade a dance and I can't bear to dance with him.

Do you think it is my friend's place to refuse him, or should I? And how should I do it? He is a nice young man morally, but I can't bear him.

It is your escort's place to make an excuse so that the dance will not be exchanged.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 12 years old. My mother is all the time scolding me for things my uncle does and for having girl friends come up and ask for me. She never treats me as a sister, she always gives me out with men and sends me for not wanting to go to the show so she can have fellows come, and I always have studied to get.

Please tell me what I can do to make her treat me as a mother, should?

A WORRIED ONE.
Some people have so many blessings that their characters are not tested. If you are strong under your misfortune you will grow into a beautiful woman and can profit by the mistakes your mother has made. You can find much happiness in your studies and books and friends. It may be impossible to help your mother, but perhaps through love and making an effort to understand her, you can gain your desire.

Be Cheerful.
We ought to be as cheerful as we can, if only because to be happy ourselves is a most effective contribution to the happiness of others.—Sir John Lubbock.

BEAUTY SECRETS!

A CHANGE FOR GOOD.

She sat before her mirror. The girl she saw there had a well-rounded face and figure, expressive eyes, and her cheeks had the freshness of rose petals; her hair was wavy and beautiful. She looked well and strong. The reason for it is given in her own letter, as follows:

"I am glad to be able to testify as to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for many ills from which women suffer," writes Miss Gertrude Mitchell. "After many years of suffering and pain I took this medicine, and in a short time began to feel stronger, became more regular and didn't have the pains which had been my lot for so long. I continued its use until I was a well woman, and shall never cease to be very grateful that it was brought to my notice. I have no pains, and feel much stronger generally."

CHAPTER XII.

The News From Africa.

It took the better part of three evenings to answer her letter, and the writing of it gave Sabron a vast amount of pleasure and some tender sorrow. It made him feel at once so near to this lovely woman and at once so far away. In truth there is a great difference between a spahi on an African desert, and a young American heiress dreaming in her chintz-covered bedroom in a chateau in the Midi of France.

Notwithstanding, the young American heiress felt herself as much alone in her chintz-covered bedroom and as desolate, perhaps more so, than did Sabron in his tent. Julia Redmond felt, too, that she was surrounded by people hostile to her friend.

Sabron's letter told her of Pitchoune and was written as only the hand of a charming and imaginative Frenchman can write a letter. Also, his pen-up heart and his reserve made what he did say stronger than if perhaps he could have expressed it quite frankly.

Julia Redmond turned the sheets that told of Pitchoune's following his master, and colored with joy and pleasure as she read. She wiped away two tears at the end, where Sabron said:

"Think of it, Mademoiselle, a little dog following his master from peace and plenty, from quiet and security, into the desert! And think what it means to have this little friend!"

Julia Redmond reflected, was greatly touched and loved Pitchoune more than ever. She would have changed places with him gladly. It was an honor, a distinction to share a soldier's exile and to be his companion. Then Sabron wrote, in closing words which she read and reread many, many times.

Mademoiselle, in this life many things follow us; but they follow us whether we will or not. Some things we are strong enough to forbid, yet we do not forbid them. My little dog followed me; I had nothing to do with that. It was a question of fate. Something else has followed me as well. It is not a living thing, and yet it has all the qualities of vitality. It is a tune. From the moment I left the chateau the first night I heard the joy of seeing you, Mademoiselle, the tune you sang became a companion to me and has followed me everywhere. I followed me to my barracks. I followed me across the sea, and here in my tent it keeps me company. I find that when I wake at night the melody sings to me; I find that when I mount my horse and ride with my men, when the desert's sands are shifted by my horse's feet, something sings in the sun and in the heat, something sings in the chase and in the pursuit, and in the nights, under the stars, the same air haunts me still. I am glad you told me what the words mean, for I find them beautiful; the music in it would not be the same without the strength and form of the words. So it is, Mademoiselle, with life. Feelings and sentiments, passions and emotions, are like music. They are great and beautiful; they follow us, they are part of us, but they would be nothing without words. We have nothing without words by which we could make it audible—appealing not to our senses alone but to our souls!

And yet I must close my letter sending you only the tune; the words I cannot send you, yet believe me, they form part of everything I do or say.

Tomorrow, I understand from my men, we shall have some lively work to do. Whatever that work is you will hear of it through the papers. I am a little tired, near here called Dirbal, inhibited by a poor tribe whose lives have been made miserable by robbers and slave-dealers. It is the business of us soldiers of the plains to protect them, and I believe we shall have a lively skirmish with the marauders. There is a congregation of tribes coming down from the north. When I go out with my people tomorrow I may be late, but I do not mean to be either morbid or sentimental. I only mean to be serious, Mademoiselle, and I and that I am becoming so serious that it will be best to close.

Adieu, Mademoiselle. When you look from your window on the Rhone Valley and see the peaceful fields of Tarascon, when you look on your peaceful gardens, perhaps your mind will travel farther and you will think of Africa. Do so if you can, and perhaps tonight you will say the words only of the song before you go to sleep.

I am, Mademoiselle,
Faithfully yours,
CHARLES DE SABRON.

There was only one place for a letter such as that to rest, and it rested on that gentle pillow for many days. It proved a heavy weight against Julia Redmond's heart. She could, indeed, speak the words of the song, and did, and they rose as a nightly prayer for a soldier on the plains; but she could not keep her mind and thoughts at rest. She was troubled and unhappy; she grew pale and thin; she pined more than Pitchoune had pined, and

There Was Only One Place for Such a Letter to Rest.

she, alas! could not break her chains and run away.

The Duc de Tremont was a constant guest at the house, but he found the American heiress a very capricious and uncertain lady, and Madame d'Esclagnac was severe with her niece.

"My dear Julia," she said to the beautiful girl, looking at her through her lorgnon: "I don't understand you.

Every one of your family has married a title. We have not thought that we could do better with our money than build up fortunes already started, than in preserving noble races and noble names. There has never been a divorce in our family. I am a marquise, your cousin is a countess, your aunt is one of the peeresses of England, and as for you, my dear

Miss Redmond was standing by the piano. She had lifted the cover and was about to sit down to play. She smiled slightly at her aunt and seemed in the moment to be the older woman.

"There are titles and titles, ma tante; the only question is what kind do you value the most?"

"The highest!" said her aunt without hesitation, "and the Duc de Tremont is undoubtedly one of the most famous parties in Europe."

"He will then find no difficulty in marrying," said the young girl, "and I do not wish to marry a man I do not love."

She sat down at the piano and her hands touched the keys. Her aunt, who was doing some dainty tapestry, whose fingers were creating silken flowers and whose mind was busy with fancies and ambitions very like the work she created, shrugged her shoulders.

"That seems to be," she said keenly, "the only tune you know, Julia."

"It's a pretty song, ma tante."

"I remember that you played and sang it the first night Sabron came to dinner." The girl continued to finger among the chords. "And since then never a day passes that sometime or other you do not play it through."

"It has become a sort of oraison, ma tante."

"Sabron," said the marquise, "is a fine young man, my child, but he has nothing but his officer's pay. Moreover, a soldier's life is a precarious one."

Julia Redmond played the song softly through.

The old butler came in with the evening mail, and the papers. The Marquise d'Esclagnac, with her embroidered scissors, opened Le Temps from Paris and began to read with her usual interest. She approached the little lamp on the table near her, unfolded the paper and looked over at her niece, and after a few moments, said with a slightly softened voice:

"Julia! Miss Redmond stopped playing. 'Julia! The girl rose from the piano stool and stood with her hand on the instrument.

"My dear Julia! Madame d'Esclagnac spread Le Temps out and put her hand on it. 'As I said to you, my child, the life of a soldier is a precarious one.'"

"Ma tante," breathed Miss Redmond from where she stood. "Tell me what the news is from Africa. I think I know what you mean."

She could not trust herself to walk across the floor, for Julia Redmond in that moment of suspense found the room swimming.

"There has been an engagement," said the marquise gently, for in spite of her ambitions she loved her niece. "There has been an engagement, Julia at Dirbal." She lifted the newspaper and held it before her face and read:

There has been some hard fighting in the desert, around about Dirbal. The troops commanded by Captain de Sabron were routed by the natives at noon or Thursday. They did not rally and were forced to retreat. There was a great loss of life among the natives and several of the regiment were also killed. There has been no late or authentic news from Dirbal, but the last dispatches give the department of war to understand that Sabron himself is among the missing.

The Marquise d'Esclagnac slowly put down the paper, and rose quickly. She went to the young girl's side and put her arm around her. Miss Redmond covered her face with her hands:

"Ma tante, ma tante!" she murmured.

"My dear Julia," said the old lady, "there is nothing more uncertain than newspaper reports, especially those that come from the African seat of war. Sit down here, my child."

The two women sat together on the long piano stool. The marquise said: "I followed the fortunes, my dear, of my husband's cousin through the engagement in Tonkin. I know a little what it was." The girl was immovable. Her aunt felt her rigid by her side.

"I told you," she murmured, "that a soldier's life was a precarious one."

Miss Redmond threw away all disguise.

"Ma tante," she said in a hard voice. "I love him! You must have known it and seen it. I love him! He is becoming my life."

As the marquise looked at the girl's face, and saw her trembling lips and her wide eyes, she renounced her ambitions for Julia Redmond. She renounced them with a sigh, but she was a woman of the world, and more than that, a true woman. She remained for a moment in silence, holding Julia's hands.

She had followed the campaign of her husband's cousin, a young man with an insignificant title whom she had not married. In this moment she relived again the arrival of the evening papers; the dispatches, her husband's news of his cousin. As she kissed Julia's cheeks a moisture passed over her own eyes, which for many years had shed no tears.

"Courage, my dear," she implored, "we will tear for news."

The girl drew a convulsive breath and turned, and leaning both elbows on the piano keys—perhaps in the very notes whose music in the little song had charmed Sabron—she burst into tears. The marquise rose and passed out of the room to send a man with a dispatch to Tarascon.

DINNER STORIES

There are not many women preachers, but there are a few. One of them has a parish in a small city that is surrounded by many miles of uncultivated territory. The station agent directed a Scandinavian farmer who wanted to get married to the girl of his choice to the woman minister's home. He didn't tell the farmer that the preacher was a woman.

When the farmer knocked at the parsonage door, he addressed himself to the young woman who answered his knock.

"The man at the station say you can get married here?"

"Certainly," she replied, "I will marry you."

"Ay, tanky, ay, better not," said the farmer. "Ay, got girl already."

Earl C. Dodge of Boston, who has lived some years in China, said in a recent article in the Boston Herald:

"Anybody who doubts the wisdom of the Chinese should read their proverb. The Chinese have a book of 10,000 proverbs, and they're all as wise and true as the first one in the volume, which says:

"It is safer to kill a tiger's tail than to catch a lady's attention to her first gray hair."

"German statesmanship," said Seneca Smith, a transparently crooked fellow, "is laughable. It reminds me of the German waiter who was ordered to bring a bottle of Medoc to a man in a suit and a woman in a dress, but instead of Medoc it was labeled Chamberlain."

"But this is Chamberlain," the guest protested, and I ordered Medoc.

"Ach, der stoopit donkey. I distinctly told Fritz to put a Medoc label on that bottle!"

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pinkish, bright eyes, ripples for a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.
